SWIMMING PROGRAM

The third week of swimming classes is nearly completely. Again we would point out more generous advantages we have in Mrs. Kimball allowing us the use of the Beach stalls and Mush McMillin, the use of his bus. However, it now begins to appear the curtailment of the Water Safety Program Funds by the National Red Cross has been felt by the chapter, and now by our Branch, due to the failure of the March Drive to attain its quota. Therefore we shall have to suggest each family contribute say $1.00 or more as they can afford, for the lessons, either to Howard Cole, chairman, or Marion Stallwood, Director.

At the conclusion of these festivities the warlike Apaches, under the direction of Chief Robbie Macready, will raid the other tribes, complete with tomahawks, spears and other war equipment made by the young braves themselves. Throughout the program Indian songs and music will be used and the parents are due for a fine treat.

Chris Zander has recently joined the Apaches and is mighty glad he came in time for today's big raiding party! Mrs. Dana C. MOUNT WASHINGTON RACE TO THE CLOUDS PLANNED JULY 14-15

Sports car drivers from all sections of the United States will pit the speed and endurance of their cars against the steep climbs of mile-high Mount Washington, New England's highest peak, July 14 and 15.

More than 50 sports cars will compete in the annual Race to the Clouds, up the eight-mile dirt road that winds and climbs to a height of more than 5,000 feet. The race is sponsored by the Sports Car Club of America in cooperation with the Gorham Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Drivers will be seeking to crack the record set two years ago by Sherwood Johnston of Rye, N. Y., who raced his sports car up the mountain side in 10 minutes, 44.8 seconds.

Johnston's time was in marked contrast to the first official time clocked on the road. In 1899, F. O. Stanley drove one of his steamers up Mount Washington in two hours and 10 minutes.

The Race to the Clouds will be over a road that averages a grade of 16 per cent. At one point the road rises to a 22 per cent grade. Scores of sharp turns mark the eight miles.

Dr. Francis F. Appleton of Gorham, coordinator of the Race to the Clouds, said that familiarization runs will be made by drivers Saturday, July 14, with official runs against time on Sunday, July 15.

RENOVATED INN GUEST HOUSE DRAWS NEARLY 100 AT PREVIEW

On Thursday, June 28, nearly one hundred local citizens enjoyed a preview of the remodeled and redecorated guest house known as the Elms at the Bethel Inn. Mr. and Mrs. Guy P. Butler, owners of the property, were ably assisted by members of their staff in welcoming the visitors, showing them through the house, and serving refreshments.

To a great many Bethel people, the transformation of the old Straw House was amazing. All of the old bathrooms have been completely modernized, and several new ones added so that, now, every guest room has its own private bath. The central heating has been extended throughout the entire building, and several truckloads of insulation have been used to make it cooler in summer and warmer in the winter.

Perhaps the most noticeable changes are the new and attractive lobby on the ground floor, the complete redecoration of the halls and guest rooms, and the spacious new parking area in the rear of the building. With these changes and improvements, the Elms may now be occupied as a guest house with the other Bethel Inn buildings, or as a completely separate operating unit.

Of special interest to Bethel people is the fact that all of the labor and practically all of the materials used in the $25,000 improvement of the Elms were furnished by Bethel contractors and business firms. The day-to-day progress of the work was under the supervision of Merrett C. Conner of the Inn staff, and decorations were planned by Roger B. Worthington, well-known radio and television commentator.

The Citizen

ACROSS the DESK

From the Mason County News, Havenswood, W. Va. In spite of the nation-wide publicity over the past several years, in spite of the fact that 35 state legislatures have passed laws designed to prevent these tragedies, sixteen more children suffocated inside refrigerators in 1955.

In the past ten years, 113 children over the nation have lost their lives through the impulse to hide in an abandoned refrigerator—the perfect, too perfect, hiding place. Hence the legislation making it a misdemeanor (it should be a felony) to throw out a refrigerator without removing hinges and doors. But, it should be remembered that not all of these children have died in discarded equipment on vacant lots or trash heaps. The kitchen refrigerator, empty and open for defrosting, is fast becoming a more likely death trap than the discarded equipment on the street or in the back porch or even in the basement.

TODAY'S Meditation

Thursday, July 5
Read Luke 19:41-44
And when he was come near, he beheld the city, and wept over it. (Luke 19:41.)

FROM my hotel room I could see the shattered homes and empty streets of the "no man's land" that marked the dividing line between Jordan and Israel. I felt that Christ must still be weeping over Jerusalem.

We have reason to believe that He is weeping over the strife and bitter enmity between Arab and Jew, and over the thousands of refugees huddled in tents and mud huts along the Jericho Road. Surely He weeps over all the sins of men, whether in Jerusalem or anywhere. They draw Him to the Way of Sorrows again.

Any "no man's land" is dangerous to mankind, but much more dangerous is the "no God's land" where pride, prejudice, selfishness, and lust for power hold sway. These cause weeping and prevent many from finding the joy of the new life in Christ.

The hope of a redeemed humanity everywhere is to allow Christ to make all things new in personal life and national life.

Prayer
Lord, forgive Thy children for their love of self. We pray for the redemption of persons. We pray that the nations will seek Thy will and dedicate themselves to be used of Thee to pursue those things which make for peace. Redeem Thy world, O God, beginning with me. For the Redeemer's sake. Amen.

Thought for the Day
By walking in His spirit, it is our privilege to walk where Jesus walked.

There begins an article whose title explains its premise: "Take the Academic Test of Politics." The great majority of appointments to the service schools—eight out of ten in the case of West Point, and six out of ten in the case of Annapolis—are made by congressmen. And the resultant situation as Senator Kennedy says it is "shocking."

West and enough appointments, the right kind of appointments, are being made last year, which was fairly typical members of Congress were called to send the boys to West Point. But the boys were not called because congressmen often reflected to the appointments, or because the appointments are made by congressmen. And all this is a result of the fact that the appointments are made by congressmen.

Normally, in Senator Kennedy's view, the quality of personnel is not as good as it should be. He is a student of the quality of personnel in the military service. A War Department study has shown that

IN ENGLAND WITH MISS LAURA WILSON

May 6, 1956

Dear Folks,

Well, I am sitting in my easy chair at 10:00 a. m. with a sleeveless summer dress on. The upper half of the radiator is pulled away down and the radiator is turned off. I will admit that I am quite accustomed to English central heating and, therefore, not as fond of 75° rooms as I used to be. However, there is not even one little goose bump on my arms. The three outside my window is in full bloom while the bushes beyond are becoming quite green. The fields have been green ever since I got back to England. The banks of the river are just covered with daffodils. Now I have some beautiful red and yellow tulips which I bought in Durham Market Place yesterday from a very sweet little lady. The birds have been singing for weeks. In fact I am fully convinced that England is the place to be in the spring. It isn't hot, it isn't cold and it always rains sometime between 6 a. m. and 6 p. m. so you can always be prepared. This means that you really should have an umbrella because raincoats are rather warm and sticky to wear around all day. You see, the sun shines all the time when it isn't raining. How clouds manage to come and go is beyond me. It is even more amazing that they should be so agile when one remembers that they have very little momentum.

practice moving during the winter season. They stay in one place, namely England.

What a week this has been! I must settle down to do some work after next Tuesday when I speak to a Ladies Group on My Country. This week I have accomplished many things.

1. Been to a debate at which my tutor displayed her Oxford training in a most amusing fashion and won hands down.

2. Been to hear the author of one of my text-books discuss the Cabinet of Queen Anne.

3. Been to the picture "The Importance of Being Earnest."

4. Discovered a true friend whom I had suspected before. Laurie told me that he was going to be in "Pinarof" to be performed in June week (the equivalent of our graduation week).

5. Told him I didn't know. Ashworth, so Brian approached me with a strong, silent air the other evening and asked me if I would sing I felt more overwhelmed than I usually do after a proposal. I said a very hushed, "ah," and waited to get my hands on Laurie to see if he was the instigator of the plot. He was, so I thanked him.

6. Been to church with the other Brian which caused rather a stir among other envious Methodist women.

7. Been to a play—"The Ideal Husband" by Oscar Wilde with Peter.

8. Entertained ten people at tea.

9. Been caught in the library by my tutor at a most propitious time.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

There is a story that a Mediterranean captain called his ship for the first time outside his island sea to venture upon the great Atlantic. But, unaccustomed as he was to the voyage without mishap and reached the outer bar of his destined port. And then he found that there was scant depth at the harbor mouth.

He was somewhat alarmed, but then was relieved by a message that came from the port authorities, assuring him that the returning tide would bear his vessel safely inside the harbor. He had never known such tides as those of which he was to learn, for the Mediterranean is a sea of small tides, but the old captain believed the story of the ocean's might, of the great tides that would raise the level of the waters of the harbor mouth.

And he was ready for the return of the tide and in due time he brought the ship to a safe berth in the deep and commodious harbor.

Thus he trusted the word of fellow seamen, and was ready to move his ship with the turn of the tide. Self is the only hidden shoal that can shut men away from the blessed harbor that shines afar across the ocean of life. But faith brings the saving word that can guide them into the eternal haven where they are ever safe in the Father's love.

For I was reading a book on her special subject. She was quite visibly pleased.

Next week end I am going to a Fulbright reception in London, at which His Royal Highness, the Duke of Edinburgh, is going to speak. I am rather excited!

Last weekend I had a rather glorious time! Friday morning I raced with my suitcase to catch the London train. Ralph, the other Fulbright, panted up just before the train arrived. Off we went. In London we ate lunch together and before parting met Fran and Carol unexpectedly. At 5.15 we met again at Follenham Court Road, underground station, where we caught a subway for the Bank station, where we unexpectedly ran into Stan Lohmberg. At the Friends' International Center I had met Jane. What do you suppose? Here I was all dressed up fit to meet the queen, my pink dress, a new white hat for the occasion, white shoes white gloves.

WILTON MAN HAS MT. BLUE STATE PARK BROCHURE

Through his own generosity a Wilton Man has set a high precedent for State officials to follow in welcoming visitors to State Parks and camping sites, S. W. Hilton turned over to officials of the Maine State Chamber of Commerce a sample copy of a three color hand illustrated map of Mt. Blue State Park, containing rules and regulations governing use of the Park area, which he prepared and made available at his own expense.

Hilton, who heads the Woodworkers of Weld, and is a member of the State Chamber, said, "Park officials formerly lacked up instructions which were soon destroyed by weather, so I designed a map of the area of the Mt. Blue State Park, had the rules and regulations printed on the reverse side and presented them to the Custodian of the Park to be given to visitors at the entrance gate. The map clearly shows the sites available. I did this because I feel that difficulties in the present system lie not with the department but that the legislature has failed to appropriate sufficient funds to do the job properly."

Hilton looks forward to the time when visitors to all State Parks will be welcomed with attractive material made available by the state.

WASHINGTON

Does the Federal government still distribute free surplus property to state and local units of government? If so, what kind of property?
A—Yes, the Federal government still distributes this surplus property when available to educational and public health agencies of state and local governments and to eligible non-profit health and educational institutions. During January, February and March this year, surplus property valued at $57,723,722, was so distributed. It included such items as buildings suitable for college dormitory or faculty housing; motor vehicles, hospital, school and office furniture; hand and machine tools; motion picture projectors; laboratory equipment; and school and office supplies. Included among the property transferred was school and hospital building sites, valued at more than $3 million.

Do I have to own a farm outright in order to qualify for institutional training under the Kerrigan GI bill?
A—It is not necessary that you own the farm outright. But you must have full control of it, either by leasing the land, or having a management agreement or some other tenure arrangement.

How fast is reforestation proceeding?
A—In addition to federal planting on government lands, the nation's forest industries planted about 240 million seedlings on their lands in 1955.

Can you give me the actual difference between a Senator and a Congressman?
A—A United States Senator is an official of the United States Government. Insofar as his duty is concerned, he is NOT the Senator from a given state. He is supposed to legislate for all 48 states. It is for this reason that United States Senators are limited to two from each state, regardless of size or population. The official title for Congressmen is "Representative in Congress." He represents the people in his congressional district. Numbers range from one in Wyoming to 43 in New York, on a population basis.

Who is credited with the idea of the Soil Bank Plan?
A—Henry Wallace, when he was Secretary of Agriculture is credited with the idea of the plan, which is taking crop land out of production for conservation purposes. Except for an appropriation and for authority for long term contracts, the law has been on the books for many years.

Is it true that the $500,000,000 "prepayment" to farmers under the soil bank as proposed by President Eisenhower would be taken out of the 1957 income of farmers who agreed to come under the soil bank plan?
A—Yes. The President asked that $500,000,000 be appropriated for payments to farmers this year who agreed to adopt the plan this year, although too late to take their land out of production, the amount to be deducted from their 1957 payments. The House killed this feature of the bill, although providing for payments to farmers who could still meet soil bank contracts this year.

Must the Secretary of Defense be a civilian?
A—Yes, the law so provides that he be named from civilian life by the President subject to approval by the Senate.

Is silver regarded as a money standard?
A—No. It is regarded as a commodity which has had a wide range in price value ranging from 24 cents to $1.38 an ounce. For many years it has been more or less stabilized at a price of about 71 cents an ounce.

What is the duty of the Comptroller General of the United States?
A—His duty is to approve all expenditures of money after the Congress has made money available for expenditure. He heads the General Accounting Office, an independent agency, which is the auditor of all the books of the government.

PONY LEAGUE NOTES

Bethel Ledian games coming up: Friday, July 4th, West Paris vs. Bethel at West Bethel, 8 P. M. Tuesday, July 10th, Bryant Pond vs. Bethel at West Bethel, 8 P. M. Loss First League Games.

Our Pony team traveled to Mechanic Falls last Tuesday evening and came out on the short end of the contest 11-4. We started off strong the first two innings scoring 3 runs each time, but our luck changed then and along with errors and walks we just couldn't start a rally again. Dana Bean pitched the first four innings allowing 5 hits but was free with walks, giving 5. He was relieved by Mel Jodrey who finished out the game. We outbit McFall's 3 to 2 but couldn't get a single when we needed it. Doug Rice continued his fine sticking with a home run and two singles in four trips to the plate. Sawyer and Lenahan hit well for McFall's.

The Strange Case of Oliver Dancer
 (It might be real, could be!)

1. This is the story of an old man who worked from 9:00 to 5:00... and twenty push-ups... talked himself into a pretty... steered clear of doctors.

2. One day while Oliver was working, he noticed a small bump on his hand reached out and touched it at his heart... This was it—CANCER!

3. Overnight Oliver became a changed man. He gave his hamsters to a neighbor, bought a heap and a doghouse—sharp playing for beginners.

4. Instead of taking long walks, he noticed that his hamsters were out of his mind and had added a couple of cubs.

5. The answer, being a man of great wisdom, knew that there was a way, and found himself dancing into being a doctor.

6. A complete medical check-up showed that he was in perfect health. He kept his hamsters and doghouse and found that he was still the same.

7. Dancer was so overjoyed he promptly went home and made out a letterhead to the American Cancer Society, and that's what you should do, too.

Must your doctor tell you to do this? No, in case of your family's health, you should do this.
